

YOU CAN...

- Make the practical beautiful
- Create the cities of tomorrow
- Design public spaces and parks
- Build transportation that works
- Address environmental issues
- Pursue economic development
- Make lives easier and healthier

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH TEXAS®

URBAN POLICY AND PLANNING

"The North Texas region is booming. With all of this growth, our cities are expanding, and that requires professional city planners. UNT will help fill this need by training professionals to work in the region's cities and for planning consulting firms."

- Jennifer Cowley
Provost and VP for Academic Affairs

DEPARTMENT
OF PUBLIC
ADMINISTRATION
College of Health &
Public Service

UNT
EST. 1890

NEW B.A. IN URBAN POLICY AND PLANNING

DETAILS

Begins academic year 2019-2020. Students can officially declare the major in May 2019.

33 required courses and 12 additional credits in Urban Policy and Planning

Traditional face-to-face, online and blended formats to support busy students

Seamless opportunities for transfer students

LEARN

Urban development, the history of cities and the impact of the urban space on communities

Principles related to demographic data, functioning of government, community mapping, land-use codes and zoning regulations, building designs and sustainability practices

WORK

Pursue careers in city and regional government, state and federal government, private development, housing, transit, nonprofits and more.

 @UNT_UrbanPlanner

 @UNT.PublicAdministration

Department of Public Administration
University of North Texas
410 Avenue C, Chilton Hall, Suite 204
Denton, Texas 76203
(940) 565-3264
Advising: (940) 565-4115